Dixon man killed in single-car crash

First traffic fatality of year for Dixon

A 64-year-old Dixon man was killed this morning in a one-car accident when his car slammed into a utility pole on the city's south side.

Paul N. Lampman, 1000 Washington Ave., was driving east on Chicago Avenue in a 1961 Ford. Witnesses said Lampman passed a semi-truck, driven by Jim McGraw, 813 S. Jefferson Ave.

After Lampman's car went by the truck, he veered right into the outside lane, witnesses said, in front of the truck. He failed to straighten out the car in that lane and continued off the right side of the highway.

The car traveled 40 feet off the roadway before slamming headon into the utility pole.

The first passerby at the scene checked Lampman and detected a faint pulse. Dixon firemen Clifford Henley and Hubert Burgess responded to the emergency call. Henley said he was unable to find a pulse when he arrived at the accident scene. Lampman was taken to KSB Hospital in the emergency vehicle but doctors there were unable to revive him.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital by Lee County Coroner Robert Preston. Preston said an inquest is scheduled Saturday.

Investigators found Lampman was subject to blackouts and might have had a heart attack just before the mishap. Preston reported that an autopsy may be conducted to determine the exact cause of death.

Lampman was born in Milledgeville Feb. 7, 1912, the son of Frederick and Mollie (Fullton) Lampman. He married Mary McGinnis in December, 1931, in Dixon. He was a World War II veteran.

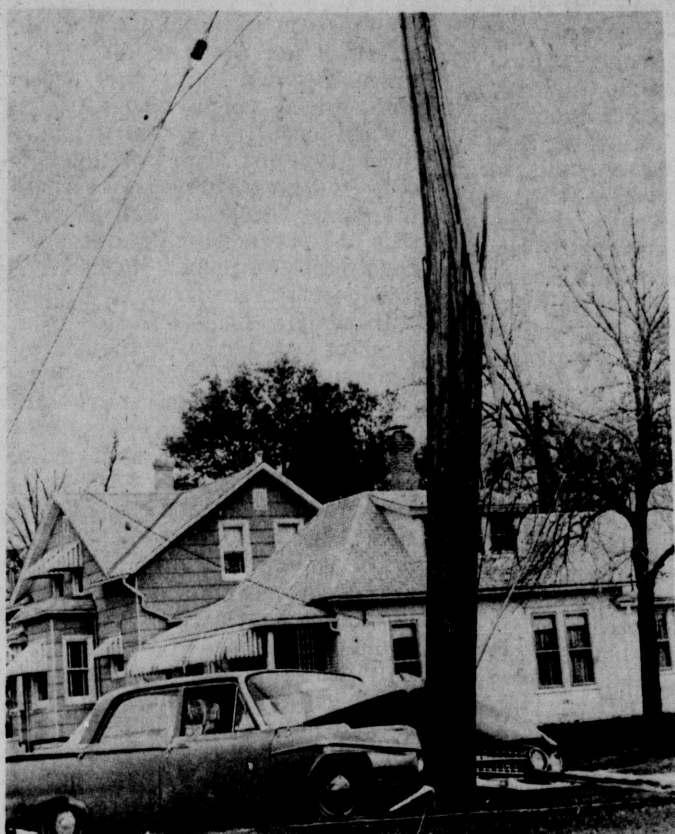

Survivors include two daughters, Miss Jaclyn Lampman, Chicago, and Mrs. James (Pamela) Bureson, Decorah, Iowa; two sisters, Mrs. Etelyn Leggett and Mrs. Frank McClanahan, both Dixon, and three grandchildren.

His wife, his parents, and a son preceded him in death.

Arrangements are being completed at Preston-Schilling Funeral Home.

Secretary knows of Hughes will

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—A onetime secretary to Howard Hughes says the billionaire left a valid will that directors of his $2-billion empire don't want found because they "would be caught with their hands in the till."

In a copyright story in Thursday's Palm Springs Desert Sun, Eleanor Rohrbeck, 61, said Hughes drew up a will in 1949 and signed a supplement in 1951. She said the will probably can be found in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Rohrbeck, interviewed at her apartment here, said the man named as executor—a friend of Hughes' father, now dead—once told her "no one individual will get a dime" from the Hughes estate.

She said, "The milk of human kindness was not known to flow through the veins of Howard Hughes."

Mrs. Rohrbeck identified the executor only as "Uncle Frank."

The woman said Hughes' officials flew her to Los Angeles on Tuesday, where she said she told them all she knew about the will. Hughes officials have been searching for such a document without success since the billionaire died April 5.

"Hughes once told me that 'every SOB has his hands in my pockets,'", she said. "He believed that when he died some would be caught with their hands in the till. This is why some of the self-appointed crowned heads don't want the will found."

Mrs. Rohrbeck said she worked for Hughes from 1943 to 1958. Noah Dietrich, former chief executive for Hughes, confirmed that.

She said she told Hughes officials Tuesday, "I had the codicil supplement in my hot little hands. It was signed and I gave it to one of the crowned heads. The will was a legal, live will."

She told the Sun that Hughes' death was no surprise, adding:

"We all knew and he knew that he suffered from a medical-mental problem that led to his eccentric behavior and his self-imposed exile." She declined to elaborate.

Time moves ahead starting Sunday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Daylight Saving Time begins Sunday. Remember, it's spring ahead, fall back.

If you like to stroll, swat a tennis ball or water the garden in the evening, then come Sunday you'll have an extra hour of light to indulge in all your favorite pastimes. But if you're a farmer or like to jog before breakfast—well, sorry!

Either way, clocks move forward Sunday one hour for the six months of Daylight Saving Time (DST) from 2 a.m. Sunday to 2 a.m. Oct. 31. And, if you get confused on which direction to move the hands, just remember the saying, "Spring ahead, fall back."

The extra daylight hour may come in handy for Congress as it grapples with proposals to change the system of six months of DST and six months of standard time.

Earlier this year, the Senate passed a bill to provide seven months of DST this year and next, from mid-March until mid-October. But inaction by the House Commerce Committee kept it from taking effect in time for the spring.

A House commerce subcommittee has tentatively scheduled DST hearings for next month, but they could be delayed further because other types of legislation are deemed more important.

Until some sort of bill clears both houses of Congress, the nation remains on the pattern of six months of DST and six months of standard time each year.

The move to extend DST was begun in late 1973 during the peak of the energy crisis. Some advocates contended that longer evening daylight hours, when most persons are awake, can result in an energy savings.

But those opposing DST argue that less daylight in morning endangers school children and inconveniences farmers. They also said DST saved little, if any, energy.

The change to DST will occur across the nation except in Arizona, Hawaii and parts of Indiana.

Identity of Hoffa slayer known

DETROIT (AP)—Federal investigators believe they know who killed former Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa but feel their case is not strong enough to take to court, the Detroit Free Press today quoted a high-ranking Justice Department official as saying.

The Free Press said another Justice Department official who asked not to be identified said information supplied by witnesses and underworld informants points to Detroit area persons New Jersey Mafia figures as the persons who killed Hoffa.

The Justice Department official said New Jersey Teamsters official Anthony "Tony Pro" Provenzano figures in the government investigation, the newspaper said.

One Justice Department official, Richard Thornburgh, was quoted by the newspaper as saying, "We have a very viable theory as to the facts and circumstances surrounding the kidnapping and murder of Hoffa and as to who was responsible. But there is a difference between what we know and what we can prove in court."

Kissinger departs on African trip

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger departed today on a two-week trip to Africa with "an attitude of good will, an open mind and some concrete objectives" about achieving black majority rule in southern Africa.

After a stopover in London to confer with special U.S. envoy L. Dean Brown about the crisis in Lebanon and to meet Anthony Crosland, the new British foreign secretary, Kissinger will head for Kenya, the first of seven countries on his itinerary.

His other stops are Tanzania, Zambia, where he will confer with black leaders from Rhodesia, Zaire, Ghana, Liberia and Senegal. He will wind up in Nairobi to head the U.S. delegation at the U.N. conference on trade and development.

Asked at Andrews Air Force Base if the United States will try to match Soviet efforts in Africa, Kissinger said, "We are not in Africa to match Soviet efforts. We are in Africa for our own purposes. And I will indicate what our purposes are and what specific steps we're prepared to take."

Once a proponent of a go-slow policy on the black-white issue, Kissinger emphasized at a news conference Thursday and in other recent statements that the United States supports the political aspirations of the black majorities in white-ruled Rhodesia and South Africa.

He has dismissed any thought of helping to create "a puppet state" in Rhodesia, saying that was beyond U.S. capabilities and intentions, and said it "remains to be seen" whether the Rhodesian problem can be solved peacefully.

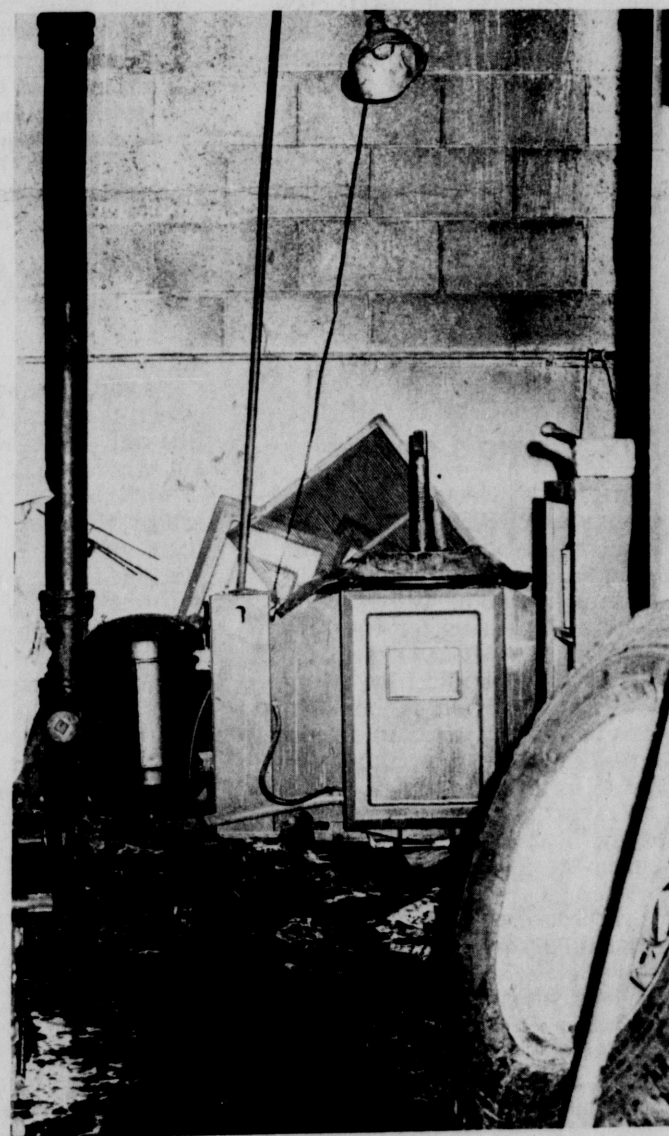

Kissinger said his meeting in Zambia with leaders of the African National Council—ANC—will take place next Monday or Tuesday.

However, the most important leader of the ANC, Bishop Abel Muzorewa, has said he will not meet with Kissinger.

Muzorewa, whose faction of the ANC is fighting an as yet small-scale guerrilla war against the white majority in Rhodesia, accused Kissinger of being "against our war of liberation."

He said Kissinger can only be coming to Africa "to subvert and sabotage our liberation struggle."

An electrical short is believed to be the cause of an early-morning fire at the Sunoco station, Galena Ave. and Everett St. Shown above is a rear storage room where the blaze started. Fifteen firemen were at the scene for about 1½ hours. No estimate of damage was available. The building is owned by Lila Kness. Malcom Schmitt is the operator of the station. (Telegraph Photo)

Soliah intimate with Patty

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—"I lived with her. I slept with her. We had a close relationship," Steven Soliah testified about Patricia Hearst. "We felt very close to each other."

But the young house painter, who became the fugitive heiress' underground lover, told a jury he did not join in the terrorist bank robbery at suburban Carmichael for which he is standing trial and never questioned Miss Hearst about it.

"I had learned not to ask questions," Soliah said at one point. "I didn't feel I needed to know."

He was curious when Miss Hearst stored cash in the refrigerator at one of her hideouts, he said. But he didn't press her on where she got the money.

"I learned from asking questions of Bill and Emily Harris and Patty before that they seemed to get uptight. So I didn't ask anymore," Soliah said.

The blond-haired Soliah, neatly attired in a pale blue suit and vest, portrayed himself

Wednesday as a soft-hearted man touched by Miss Hearst's plight who was unwittingly drawn into the radical intrigue of the Symbionese Liberation Army.

His fingerprints were found on evidence seized in SLA hideouts, and Soliah told his love story to explain how he was connected to the SLA and Miss Hearst.

"I felt sorry for her at that time," he said. "I felt close to her. I wanted to help her. She seemed kind of confused."

In testimony which lasted a full day, Soliah gave the first public details of Miss Hearst's mysterious "missing year" in the underground which she refused to discuss at her own San Francisco bank robbery trial.

He placed her in Sacramento for most of that year—including the time of the April 21, 1975, Carmichael bank robbery—and said she was determined not to be captured.

"She told me she hated her parents, that she'd been abandoned by them and didn't want to go back to them," he said of the heiress. "... She said she wanted to stay in Sacramento, stay underground. She didn't want to go home."

Democrats seek party unity

Walker rules out third party gubernatorial bid

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Aides said Gov. Daniel Walker has ruled out a third-party race for governor, as about 2,500 state Democrats converged on Springfield for a convention keyed to party unity.

"I am a Democrat and I believe strongly in the two-party system..." Walker said in a telegram Thursday to the Democratic State Convention.

"I believe the people of Illinois and across the nation need Democratic party programs and Democratic victories in November," Walker said.

Aides said it would be correct to interpret Walker's statement as ruling out a third-party bid. But they declined to specify whether it represented support for the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett.

After losing to Howlett in the March 16 primary, Walker left open the possibility he might not support Howlett and would run for governor with a third party.

The convention Thursday was called to select at-large delegates to the Democratic National Convention in July, but also turned into an attempt to heal the wounds of the Democratic primary.

It adopted a resolution urging unity on the part of "Democrats of every office and walk of life, from the highest state officer, Gov. Daniel Walker, to every candidate, volunteer and party worker..."

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, whose Democratic organization backed Howlett for the nomination, told the convention that "... the people have spoken on March the 16th, and their direction is a mandatory one to all of us in the party."

Asked in an interview about the meaning of Walker's telegram, Daley said: "I think the telegram speaks for itself; you'll have to ask him that."

Fourteen at-large delegates and 11 alternates were chosen at the convention, held at a Springfield motel and dominated by the teaming Daley.

Daley was applauded and praised repeatedly by party leaders, and he paraded through the hotel, shaking hands and cracking jokes.

He is expected to be elected chairman of the Illinois delegation to the national convention, but the selection was not made at Thursday's state meeting. John Touhy, state Democratic chairman, said the selection would be made in June.

Daley was elected chairman of the Illinois delegation in 1972, but was ousted as a delegate to the convention in a credentials battle. Earlier that year he had seen his candidate for governor, Paul Simon, lose to maverick Democrat Walker.

But Daley appeared to put all that behind him Thursday in sounding out the call for unity, both at the national convention and in the state party.

"We had a crushing and serious primary battle last March 16, but you know the Democrats have always said 'when the people have spoken... we follow whatever the people decide in any election.'"

He also said that the Illinois delegation would go to the national convention "not in a spirit of conflict, not in a spirit of antipathy, not trying to stop anyone..."

The delegates selected Thursday were seven committed to favorite son candidate Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, five to former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter; one to Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., and one uncommitted delegate.

Alternate delegates were six committed to Stevenson, four to Carter, and one uncommitted.

The number of at-large delegates for each candidate was determined by the percentage of delegates committed to each candidate who were elected in the March 16 primary.

The at-large delegates for each candidate were selected by the elected delegates for that candidate at caucuses before the convention.

The Daley-dominated Stevenson delegation chose without debate delegates nominated by Touhy, after an abortive attempt by one delegate to get Joanne Alter, Walker's running mate for lieutenant governor, selected as an alternate.

The selections included Howlett, Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan, Senate President Cecil Partee, and Democratic candidate for comptroller, Michael Bakalis.

Touhy said in an interview that offering a delegate seat to Walker was considered, but that "I don't think he wants to be a delegate..."

The Illinois delegation, both elected and at-large, will include 86 delegates committed to Stevenson, 59 committed to Carter, three to Alabama Gov. George Wallace, two committed to Walker, four committed to Humphrey, and 15 uncommitted.

The convention also selected three nominees for the board of trustees of the University of Illinois.

Speaking to the convention, Stevenson referred to Daley as "my father's friend and mine," and termed his own favorite son candidacy "an unsought honor."

"I run for no office, nor from any office," he said.

"This is one of the best Democratic meetings I've been to in a long time," Stevenson said, looking at Daley. "It even smells good."

Before the convention, Stevenson delegates were misdirected to a small bedroom for their caucus.

Standing in the hall, Daley turned and chuckled to the scores of delegates: "They've got a room if we can get in."

The delegation finally met in a larger meeting room.

A party official estimated that between 2,500 and 3,000 persons attended the convention.

NATO like tiger for U.S.: cannot ride, steer, get off

By HENRY J. TAYLOR
American citizen James F. Sattler, who admitted that for nine years he transferred to the Soviet secret NATO information and documents from the U.S., British, Canadian, French and West German governments, proves again that NATO is a sieve.

The true situation is far, far deeper than Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger implied in his warning to the NATO countries against going red.

Able U.S. Ambassador to NATO Robert Strauszhupe sits at Evere, Belgium near Brussels, side by side with 14 other NATO ambassadors. Ambassador Strauszhupe has his staff and a military mission as do all 15 ambassadors to NATO. The Supreme Commander, American four-star Gen. Alexander M. Haig, in turn, has an integrated military hierarchy that serves the 15.

Nearly everything our country does in Europe or intends to do, diplomatically and militarily, requires that the United States inform NATO—of our decisions and indecisions alike.

We cannot avoid such disclosures. Usually our future actions depend on the NATO countries' co-operation. Ambassador Strauszhupe finds such NATO agreements hard to obtain. What Denmark may approve, Italy may reject. So we lay our cards on the table at Evere and answer classified questions.

President Ford and Secretary Kissinger send Evere in great secrecy our highest intentions and capabilities against the Soviet. But at Evere they hit the NATO sieve.

Each NATO ambassador refers the information to his capital at home. It goes to the country's cabinet, ordinarily to a defense committee staff and frequently to warring parliamentary factions.

These foreign diplomats, politicians and soldiers total about 600. They sprawl from Oslo to Ankara and, in varying degrees, all are cut in.

To say nothing of the situation in Portugal and Italy, once America's secrets reach certain NATO countries they drain through those countries to the Kremlin like water through a sieve. NATO gives the Soviet Union a ringside seat at the Ford-Kissinger conference table.

Moreover, the James F. Sattler penetration is merely typical. NATO calls its top-secret security clearance COSMIC—an acronym for Coordination of Security Measures in the International Command. Certainly our public never heard of a Turk named Nahit Imre. As a NATO financial expert, Imre held a COSMIC at NATO's headquarters. This Red spy, arrested in Istanbul, Turkey, relayed no fewer than 20 film containers of highly classified NATO military secrets to two Soviet agents, a Romanian and a Yugoslav. Imre caused NATO's codes to be changed.

Soviet spy Gunther Guillaume was privy to NATO's operations as an assistant and intimate of West German Chancellor Willy Brandt. He and his wife, Christel, operated inside NATO for 11 years before being caught.

Spy Heinz Felf operated inside NATO for 11 years before being caught. Felf delivered the Kremlin at least 15,000 intelligence photographs and 300 rolls of secret films.

COSMIC-holder West German Adm. Hermann Luedke, deputy chief of NATO's logistic command, had hidden in his Bonn residence microfilms of nine secret NATO military documents. Adm. Luedke took his life with a hunting rifle in the Eifel mountains. This promptly triggered the suicides of Maj. Gen. Horst Wentland, deputy chief of West Germany's intelligence; Defense Ministry counter-intelligence officer Lt. Col. Johannes Grimm; Economics Ministry senior official Hans-Heinrich Schenk, and Federal Press Office Librarian Edeltraud Grapentin.

Through such NATO penetrations, the Soviet knows what the United States really intends to do before many Washington government officials may know it. The Soviet General Staff knows the number and location of our atom bomb sites throughout Europe. NATO's communications set-up is critically important. The Soviet knows every particular. The Kremlin knows NATO's musterable strength of troops, planes and vessels and even the names and missions of their commanders. It knows NATO's logistic tables and the actual order-of-battle if the chips are down.

In our vulnerability, the United States is a man on a tiger: we cannot stop it, cannot steer it and cannot get off it. Compared to the reality inside NATO, Secretary Kissinger's warnings to its countries are like a zephyr to a tornado.

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA) — There are 5,000 debt collectors in the United States. Last year $3 billion in debts were turned over to them for collection, of which they collected $850 million.

Yet only 38 states and the District of Columbia have laws regulating collectors. Most of these laws are enforced in a desultory fashion.

In 12 of the states which have laws, the rule making or advisory boards by law must include a majority of debt collectors. In many states it is possible to obtain a license merely by paying a fee and obtaining a bond. Twelve states with a combined population of 40 million have no collection laws.

The result is what we might expect.

Unscrupulous collectors make no distinction between those actually in debt and those whose names are listed through computer error, no distinction between the deliberate welcher and the individual who cannot pay or must delay payment because of illness, accident or other calamity. And they make no distinction between debtors and those singled out because a greedy company wants money before it is due or money which may not be owed.

One firm has on its wall in a place of honor a letter from a victim explaining that no debt was owed, but that the agency was being paid what it asked to put an end to the harassment.

One witness before a U.S. House of Representatives Banking and Currency subcommittee, related his collection techniques in some detail. He would phone an alleged debtor every hour, or sometimes every five minutes, during the day and evening, at home and at work, following up with phone calls to the man's boss.

Doctors have been called out of emergency rooms, not once but repeatedly. Mothers have been told their children had been in terrible automobile accidents to frighten them into paying. Children have been told to report to police station to bring money out of fathers.

The story is told of an attorney, who for $75 a month allowed one collection agency to use his name on the door and his letterhead, his signature on letters. He permitted a phone at the agency to be answered in his name and his approval for an agent to impersonate him in threatening alleged debtors in his name.

The same firm had a judge on its payroll who received a percentage of the take. In return, the judge provided the firm with semilegal forms bearing his name which were used to tell debtors the account was now in his hands and that they could save themselves court action by paying up immediately.

Said the witness: "We could have judgments issued, if we wanted to, without ever notifying the defendant that he was being sued."

But there's worse. One witness reported a debtor being told he would find himself floating in a river if he didn't pay up. A lady was offered a pair of cement shoes.

We are not talking here of the Mafia. But of firms employed by legitimate businessmen and institutions, some of whom make little or no effort to determine the methods used by the collection agencies they employ. It must be said many collection firms are honest and fair, and most businesses do not employ the type of collectors mentioned. It must also be said that some respected firms are involved.

The Banking and Currency Committee is getting ready to write a new law. But the weight of testimony this reporter has studied indicates that even in states with good laws, harassment may be equal to that in states with no laws on collections.

The plain and simple fact is that as noted above, in most instances laws on the books are not enforced. So the federal law, however well written, will be no panacea.

Voice of the people

Remove Franklin; restructure all Dixon High sports

Wednesday I heard the report of parents asking for the removal of Dixon's basketball coach Mr. Franklin. I write this letter because at the start of the past season I wrote one asking for the same thing but not just in basketball. I was critical then and I am critical now. I shall try to explain why, even though I do not have nor do I expect a son to be playing any basketball for Dixon.

Correct me if I am wrong but I believe that other letters of criticism were also printed last fall. In response, I believe it was a Mr. Jim Burke who wrote the letter, stated that he enjoyed Duke basketball and that he felt the excitement aroused his thinking ability and therefore he greatly enjoyed the games and that it helped him to think positively instead of negatively as the previous letter writers were engaged in. Win or lose he really got hepped up and so everyone else should—I suppose.

I have no doubt whatsoever that Mr. Franklin is a real gentleman and a very good man but as a basketball coach he has failed miserably, except for maybe a couple seasons. Even when Dixon had the team that lost only to West Rockford, I sensed the lack of control or the coachability of Mr. Franklin as regards the players. I was told by players on that squad that they really lived it up, that curfew was not kept, that there was drinking and smoking by players on the squad and the worst, which I believe was not Mr. Franklin's fault at all, was that no matter what their grades they were passed. In other words, for the first time in a long time Dixon had a team and it stayed together no matter what. This, if it were true, sure doesn't speak well for the integrity of those who would take part in such a move.

I could never see getting excited over a 14-12 season or being satisfied with just beating your arch rival. Where are all the tall players?

What is the caliber of grade school coaching? When will favoritism on the Dixon Duke sport scene end? There are taller players shooting at the Y than on the high school team. There are also some pretty good ones that play for some of the City League teams. Coach after coach has become available but Dixon just never seems to grab one or be able to. Could it be there is something wrong in the Dixon Athletic Program that these other coaches want no part of? It seems that if a coach or teacher can stick it out here for three years they can stay for life. Dixon has been without a winner just about as long as the Cubs.

It's time for a change and restructuring of the entire sports program at Dixon High. I've seen enough of time outs being called at the wrong time, of no player changes when one is sour on a given night, of no time outs being called when a team starts to run away from the home boys or none being called in close situations toward the end of a game. The Dukes usually end a game with nearly as many time outs left as they started with. I would like to see more pattern play, better shooting guards, less foolish fouling, and a heck of a lot more respect to the game shown instead of just run and shoot. The Dukes seem to play a game all their own and cannot change from it even when the opponent begins to close in on a lead they have nor do they seem able to change it in order to break up the opponent's continuity. It is not the kids' fault.

Thank you, Art Bennett

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The previous person writing a letter to the editor Bennett refers to was Donald F. Burke, not Jim Burke.)

I THINK HE'S GOING TO BE HARD TO DEAL WITH.

By TOM TIEDE
WASHINGTON (NEA)— It is popularly known that teen-agers commit almost half of all serious crimes in America. What is less well established is that the young people also are the most victimized segment of society.

According to federal surveys more criminal acts are visited on males 16 to 19 years old than any other group, and boys aged 12 to 15 are second. One example will drive it home: each year 2 of every 10 people aged 12 to 15 suffer from known larceny offenses; this is twice the rate of those 25 to 34.

Undoubtedly the youths are targets because they are easy. They are not physical pushovers, necessarily, but as a category they are less suspicious, less responsible and less careful than older citizens. Hence the vulnerability of the unsuspecting; "I took the ride," a savagely raped hitchhiker told Los Angeles police recently, "because to tell the truth he seemed like a real nice guy."

Besides their inexperience, young people are often simply not emotionally equipped to compete with the criminals. A recent survey of 800 students in eight high schools in DeKalb County, Ga., indicates that fewer than half who have been victimized in recent years have reported the crimes. Why? A distrust of police, a sense of hopelessness, and, perhaps most importantly, a reluctance to get a peer in trouble.

It may also be that kids simply react differently than adults to crime. There is the romance of it, for instance, the Bob Dylan type sentiment that "only the honest can live outside the law."

But the DeKalb survey also suggests that kids are not happy being patsies, even for romance. Their personal attitude against hooliganism is that they'd rather go to jail than commit a crime, Dylan to the contrary, and 85 per cent go so far as to suggest that crime resistance become a regular part of their growing up education. So it is that the kids of DeKalb County are being solicited to participate in an FBI-local police program to, in effect, save themselves.

The project, part of the FBI's national effort to encourage people to fight crime personally, has some borrowed elements. Since more than $100,000 worth of bicycles are stolen annually in DeKalb County, and since proper identification is necessary for recovery, cops and kids now cooperate in applying and registering serial numbers. Too, the county has begun to set up a central registry to identify child abuse victims (10 per cent of all young victims in DeKalb); the latter idea is to prevent instances where a child is brought to the attention of a hospital but not to law enforcement authorities.

Teens between law and peers

A more novel part of the DeKalb effort is the Black Parent Program. Because many kids agree with Alfred Hitchcock's attitude toward cops ("I'm not against them, I'm just afraid of them."), many will not go to the police when in trouble. Thus more than 400 parents have been established as surrogate cops throughout the county. The parents identify their homes with window signs, and kids in a jam are urged to visit. The homes are connected by the telephone network, so police reinforcement and cooperative efforts can be assured.

Perhaps the most innovative portion of DeKalb's save the children project is under way at Shamrock High School, where 35 students are enrolled in a crime resistance class as part of their regular curriculum. How does one avoid being ripped off? Perhaps in part the same way one learns to dodge errors in grammar. At least it can't hurt a child to learn, say, that most crimes against kids take place between 4 and 6 p.m. (in DeKalb County) and most occur on Friday after school. Education is a defensive as well as offensive weapon.

There are, to be sure, some barriers to the idea of teen-agers becoming a crime-fighting legion. One is that, for their own reasons, kids do not want to be branded as child cops. A DeKalb attempt to arrange student patrols of high school parking lots is therefore meeting resistance. The snitch aversion runs deep, says DeKalb police officer Hugh Howard, "and we can't force them to change."

Yet we can provide them with the opportunity to work out solutions, where possible. Education, cooperation, encouragement. The DeKalb effort, or something similar, can easily be repeated in every county in the country, and should be. No kid wants his lunch money robbed, particularly if he understands that tomorrow it may be his paycheck.

(Prepared with the cooperation of the FBI and local law enforcement agencies.)

Thais nix leftists

BANGKOK (LENS)— Thailand's second general election in 14 months has laid to rest one particular political myth. The strong swing to the right, in the countryside as well as the cities, showed that rural poverty in Asia does not have to be synonymous with socialism or communism.

Thailand's left-wing parties won only a handful of seats in the 279-seat parliament and their defeat was particularly marked in the underprivileged northeast of the country, a traditional leftist stronghold. This suggests that the swing was a gut reaction to the Communist takeover of Indochina and to the abolition of the monarchy in neighboring Laos, which shocked many of Thailand's monarchy-loving peasants.

The election brought an early, perhaps permanent, end to the political career of the outgoing prime minister, Kukrit Pramoj. Although his Social Action party did well, nearly tripling its number of seats, Kukrit lost his own seat in a conservative Bangkok district and is thus disqualified from continuing as prime minister. A masterful political tactician, Oxford-educated and perhaps Thailand's only modern politician, Kukrit had managed to keep his coalition of 16 parties together through the worst shocks of 1975—Indochina's collapse and rising domestic violence and unrest. This was no mean feat.

But his coalition began to break apart early this year, prompting him to call an election in the mistaken belief that in spite of the profusion of political parties—39 competed in the election—he would be returned to office at the head of a much stronger coalition.

The chief beneficiary of the swing to the right was the Democratic party led by Kukrit's elder brother and political rival, Seni Pramoj. The Democratic party, which was also the largest in the last election with 72 seats, won 114 seats this time, including all 28 in Bangkok. There is no easy explanation for its popularity. It could lie in the fact that as Thailand's oldest political party—it was formed nearly 30 years ago—it represents dependability at a time of uncertainty and confusion.

Thailand has shown, through its election, that it is almost the only democracy left on the Asian mainland. That is one up for it. But, naturally, it still has problems. An obvious one is Seni's age (he is in his 70s) and health.

One of Seni's election pledges was to reduce government spending. Another was to cancel the free bus rides that the Kukrit government granted to low-paid workers. He has also said he will reconsider Kukrit's development scheme under which millions of pounds were poured into rural councils in what turned out to be an inefficient attempt to redistribute wealth in favor of the countryside.

But on one key point the brothers seem to agree: Seni has said there will be no resumption of negotiations on the stationing of American troops on Thai soil, although he has left the way open for a return of the 4,000 military technicians who ran America's listening posts in Thailand until they were given notice by Kukrit three weeks ago.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

Ask Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: Is it true that the budding starlet, Candace Bankhead, is a cousin to Faye Dunaway? I have heard that they were. Please let me know the true facts.—UNA DEAN, Stockton, Calif.

True. And she's also a cousin of the late whiz kid of the theater, Tallulah Bankhead. Naturally, that makes Faye and Tallulah related, too. Relatively small world.

DEAR DICK: I watch Good Times regularly and think it's a great show. Many times I've seen Jimmie Walker (J.J.) wearing one-piece pajamas with "Dyn-o-mite" printed across his chest. Could you please tell me where he got the pajamas and where I could get a pair also?—N. L. HENDERSON, Delta, Ont., Can.

You can't. You'll just have to sleep the way you are. Jimmie's P.J.s — J.J.'s P.J.s — were designed by the show's costume person, Rita Riggs, just for the show.

DEAR DICK: I recently read that ex-Beatles, John, George, Paul and Ring, have agreed to reform the group. I've heard they'll have a worldwide satellite TV show and that a promoter offered $20 million for the show. Is this true? — RICK GIANNAMORE, Steubenville, Ohio.

It's semi-true, an offer was made but not yet accepted. NEA's music reporter, Stephen Ford, has said that a New York millionaire, who promotes rock concerts on the side, has guaranteed them $60 million for a performance to be shown in movie theaters. It would certainly sell tickets, but you can't help wondering if the Beatles will be able to recapture that old white magic.

It gets into areas that are vital to the success of your business and the morale of your employees and key executives.

I can suggest the right insurance plan to provide for employees who become disabled, key person life insurance, retirement income programs and business continuation through buy and sell agreements funded by life insurance.

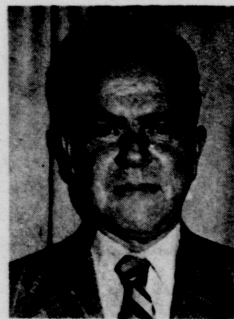

Quite frankly, these are subjects in which I, as a member of the Metropolitan team, am competent to provide professional recommendations and personal service.

This is the work I do. It's what Metropolitan Life is all about... providing enlightened companies with well-rounded, carefully planned insurance programs that assure employee stability and the long-lasting success of the organization.

Couple exchanges vows

St. Mary's Catholic Church, Sterling, was the setting for the March 20 wedding of Miss Rita Louise McDonnell, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas J. McDonnell, Sterling, and Richard Allen Kerley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thoy D. Kerley, 1112 S. Hill Drive, Dixon.

Officiating at the mass were two clergymen, including the bride's uncle, the Rev. Francis E. McDonnell, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Rockford, and the Rev. William Burgess, pastor of the Dixon Church of the Brethren. The bridegroom's brother, Larry Kerley, was the vocalist preceding the mass, while Frank Klocke sang during the ceremony. Mrs. Robert Fecht was organist.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a white Quina gown with a pearl-trimmed bodice extending into an A-line skirt. The veil, made by Mrs. Charles Kalmes, was attached to a Juliette cap accented with rows of pearl beading. The train was bustled for the reception. The bride carried a cascading bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis and baby's breath with leather-leaf fern and ivy.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Joan McDonnell, Sterling. Mrs. Kate Cavanagh, East Moline, sister of the bride; Miss Laura Hurches, Chicago, and Miss Martie Klocke, Madison, Wis., were bridesmaids. The attendants wore mint-green knit gowns and carried bouquets of white and yellow daisies and miniature carnations accented by baby's breath and foliage. Baby's breath also decorated their coronet headpieces.

Serving as best man was the bridegroom's brother, Larry, while groomsmen were Gary Boyd, Oregon; Pat Cavanagh, East Moline, brother-in-law of the bride, and Michael Nelson, Elgin, cousin of the bridegroom. Mike McDonnell, Woodstock, brother of the bride, and Bill Miller and Doug Gallentine, both of Dixon and cousins of the bridegroom, were ushers.

A buffet dinner reception was held at the Emerald Hill Country Club following the ceremony. Host and hostesses were Mrs. and Mrs. John Innes, Sterling, and Mrs. Larry Cramberg, Rock Falls. Mrs. Richard Rhoads, Aurora, and Miss Mary Jane Conerton, Chicago, served the cake, while Miss Monica Murry, Chicago, cousin of the bride, registered the guests. The Gary Wingert trio provided dance music for the reception.

The bridegroom's parents gave a rehearsal dinner for the wedding party and families at Jul's Danish Farm the evening before the ceremony. The bride and groom were also honored at a dinner party given in the home of Dr. and Mrs. John McDonnell, Sterling, previous to the wedding.

Tips on propagating plants

By JANET TARA
(Eleventh of a Series)

There are several ways to start new plants from older ones. Cutting slips from healthy, established plants and putting them in water or vermiculite is the most popular.

When rooting slips in water try to use small bottles that are made of dark glass. Old pill bottles are ideal.

Spider plants (Chlorophytum) can be propagated in two easy ways. Divide overgrown spider plants in the springtime and repot into slightly smaller pots. Be careful not to rip the roots when dividing them. It may help to wash some of the dirt off the root ball with lukewarm water.

The beautiful fleshy roots that the spider sends out at the end of its runners are all

SOFTEN JAWLINE

If you have a square jaw and want to soften it, try blending dark foundation on the jawbone below the ears.

FOOT NOTE

If you feel your feet are too big, avoid platform heels, wedges or very high or low heels. Sling-backs work well by breaking the long line of the foot.

Dear Ann Landers: Please don't consider my problem too minor to print. I need to know what to do about a habit that is not only driving me nuts but making me unpopular with my friends.

You've heard of knuckle-cracking, I'm sure. Well, I am what you might call a bit of a freak. I can crack not only my knuckles, but my toes, my knees, ankles, wrists, and my neck. Yesterday I discovered I can crack my nose.

At first it was funny, but now I am getting on people's nerves. I wish I could stop it, but I can't. This all started about three months ago when some girls asked me to do it at a party. Now I can't quit. Any suggestions?—Out Of Control

Try Zabaglione for dessert

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: Recently I was served a delicious dessert of poached apples with Zabaglione. I know how to cook the fruit, but can you tell me how to prepare the Zabaglione? —CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: I hope the following directions work out well for you. —C. B.

ZABAGLIONE

3 yolks, from large eggs
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup dry Marsala

Use a double boiler whose top has a rounded bottom. Pour enough boiling water into the bottom part of the double boiler so that the water will come up high but not touch double-boiler top. Place over heat, adjusting it so that water stays very hot but does not boil. In the double-boiler top, off heat, with an electric beater at highest speed, beat yolks until they begin to thicken and are lemon color. Beat in sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time; continue to beat until very thick and a very pale yellow color. Place over the highest heat, slowly pour in the Marsala — mixture will thicken. Continue beating just until mixture increases in volume and holds peaks that tilt over slightly when the beater is slowly withdrawn; in a glass double boiler we found this took about 5 minutes. Serve at once because it separates and deflates on standing. Makes 4 servings as an accompaniment for poached apples or pears.

Joint-cracker asks for help

Dear Ann Landers: I am worried about my 21-year-old sister. She wants to take LSD to lose weight. Actually, she's not fat but she thinks she is. Her dream is to be so skinny her hip bones will stick out like the models' in fashion magazines. Her two best friends are practically skin and bones. They take LSD and she wants to try it, too.

I am only 17 and Sis doesn't pay much attention to me. (She doesn't think you know anything either.) But maybe if she sees in print exactly what LSD does to people, she will get scared off the idea.

Please, Ann, you have the facts. I don't. Can you tell my sister the dangers of LSD?—Frightened For Her

Dear Frightened: For openers, your sister needs psychiatric help. Girls (almost never boys) who are not overweight but have a mad desire to be very skinny have an illness called anorexia nervosa. This could be her central problem.

LSD is a psychedelic or hallucinogenic drug that produces a "trip." It could last anywhere from 12 to 14 hours. LSD distorts the mind and makes the user believe he can fly or float or perform superhuman feats. For this reason, many LSD users have killed themselves because they jumped out of windows, thinking they could fly. Or they walked in front of trains and cars, believing they could stop them with their hands.

Flashbacks among LSD users are not uncommon. Often weeks or months after the person has stopped taking the drug, he may trip out again for no apparent reason. This experience can be terrifying because the person then realizes his head is messed up even though he has vowed never to touch the stuff again.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married 46 years. He is a lovely man but he has a snore like a tuba in the Chicago Symphony. I want to move him into the guest room so I can get some sleep. He is agreeable, but my mother says no. What do you say?—Undecided

Dear Un: A woman who has been married 46 years doesn't need her mother's advice. Move him already.

COMMUNITY NEWS

Hi-you-he-he

Mrs. Norman Daraska gave a talk on Shakers and their crafts at a recent meeting of the Quakers Hi-You-He-He Chapter.

She started by telling of the founding of the Shakers in 1774. The largest family was located in New Hampshire and Maine, she said. The Shaker membership peaked just before the Civil War with 6,000 members in 18 communities. After the war, due to many religious economic reasons their membership went into a rapid decline, she related.

Talking of the furniture of the Shakers, she spoke of the practical, functional designs. Though the furniture is a light and airy looking, she felt that the furniture is strong and durable.

Is religion still alive today

RABBI MARC TANENBAUM

Today's Topic: "Have You Been to Church or Synagogue Lately?" is discussed by Rabbi Marc Tanenbaum of the American Jewish Committee and Sen. Mark Hatfield (R-Ore-gon). The speakers answered the public's questions at the National Town Meeting which is held each week at Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C. This article was adapted from the debate.

SEN. MARK HATFIELD

What is the condition of America's organized religion?

By the usual American standards of success in the marketplace, religion is reasonably successful. Despite statistical ups and downs, institutional membership in churches and synagogues rose 46 per cent between 1950 and 1970 while the general population declined. By 1971, religious groups received more than 40 per cent of the total philanthropic giving in our nation. But the criteria for spiritual success is to be looked for elsewhere. Jews and Christians who are faithful to their shared Biblical covenant stake their existence on the central Biblical affirmation that each human being is created in the sacred image of God, that human life is of infinite worth and preciousness, that no human being can be used as an object for someone else's project. In my judgment, the greatest moral, spiritual threat that we face at this moment in history is the actual potential for unprecedented destruction of life that is posed by the nuclear arms race. We now have the capacity, the Soviet Union and ourselves, to destroy each other by some 200 times over. The insane spiraling arms race consumes billions of dollars that are desperately needed for overcoming hunger, poverty and suffering and diverts our attention from the denial of human rights in virtually every part of the world. The condition of religion will be judged ultimately in America's third century by the degree to which we take seriously the instruction of such prophets as Isaiah and translate his vision not into piety and liturgical codes but into actual change of human condition.

What is the condition of America's organized religion?

A question put to Jesus might be paraphrased to fit our theme today— "Have you been observing the Sabbath lately?" Jesus used the question as an opportunity to speak about the basic purpose of religious observances. He said, "The Sabbath was made for man, not man for the Sabbath." If the Lord would ask today about his church or synagogue attendance, he might very well respond in a similar vein. If we look at the church as an organization located in a building, we see many indications of declining loyalty to it. Church membership is down for the first time since records have been kept. Church giving did not keep up with inflation last year. Onlookers are aware of divisions within the church over the historical issues of faith and over the current issues— the roles of women and abortion, for instance. Christ's view of the church was to purposely avoid putting the emphasis on structure and organization. He was more concerned about obedience and discipleship than organizational achievements.

For the dispersed church, the building serves mainly as a place for the believer to meet for training and for fellowship and to observe the sacraments. The Church is at its best where people are— in ghettos, needing better housing; in the offices of national leaders, needing fellowship and encouragement; in prison study groups and many other places where people are. The dispersed church is able to escape from the questionable stewardship of building more costly buildings at the expense of a ministry to the poor and to experience a new freedom of service.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

Margaret Corbin followed her husband to Fort Washington and was at his side in battle on November 16, 1776, when he fell, mortally wounded, beside his cannon. Margaret took his place until she too was hit, her breast and shoulder torn by grapeshot. She never regained the use of her arm. Recognizing her courage under fire, Congress made Margaret the first woman pensioner of the United States. Margaret Corbin is the only woman from the Revolution buried in West Point cemetery. ## FRIENDSHIP THROUGH FAITH SPANS INTERNATIONAL BORDERS

With the celebration of Canada-United States Goodwill Week, designed to promote better understanding between two countries, we are reminded that there is no finer example in all the world of international trust, respect and harmony than our three thousand miles of unguarded boundary line. No matter which side of the border you live on, you have the heart-warming assurance that your neighbors across the way are friends who wish you well and would help you in any way they could. This is the spirit of peace and brotherhood that is taught by every faith and recurs in many forms throughout the Bible. Learning to love your neighbor is the first lesson you receive when you attend the Church of your choice on the Sabbath.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE G-665: Patty G., aged 29, invited me to address her University Women's Club.
"Dr. Crane," she began, "how did you happen to launch your newspaper column?"
"My husband is advertising manager of our local newspaper and says its recent reader survey showed your 'Worry Clinic' rated first among all women readers."
"And pulls the heaviest letter input."

Worry Clinic

While teaching psychology at George Washington University and later at Northwestern University, I did a great deal of public speaking before PTA, Lyceums, Town Halls and sales conventions.

Mothers and fathers often asked for advice regarding their marriage problems.

Or were worried about their children.
Since my special field was applied psychology, such as child psychology, advertising, sales psychology, etc., I also addressed many conventions of advertisers and salesmen.

For I had also spent five years in actual selling (including two years as a door-to-door and encyclopedia salesman).

In those days, very little practical psychology appeared in newspapers.
So I felt it was unfair that people were debarrd from helpful strategy in getting along harmoniously with their associates unless they went to college and took the courses in our psychology department.

"Why not carry psychology to the average family?" I decided.

And I realized that the newspaper was the most influential educator of the average American.

So I charted this diversified series of actual cases to cover child rearing, love and marriage, personality development, psychosomatic medicine and vocational psychology (advertising, public speaking, personnel, etc.).

Those are the five major fields of human interest, so by "a priori" reasoning, you would guess this column should rate first in readership.

But to add more authority to my Ph.D. degree in psychology, I gave up my full teaching schedule on our daytime campus at Evanston and taught in our Northwestern University Evening Division on our Chicago campus, meanwhile taking the four years in medical school and later hospital internship.

Oddly enough, some of my psychology colleagues criticize me as an egotist for the fact editors add the Ph.D. and M.D. behind my name.

But readers prefer evidence of medical and psychological authority in a writer dealing with crucial marriage and child rearing dilemmas!

They also repose more credibility in writers who can practice what they preach!

So editors have asked me to include cases about our five Crane children and the fact Mrs. Crane and I have been happily married, with no remote thought of divorce.

"Dr. Crane," editors often comment, "your use of actual cases and your scientific background make your column 'ring true,' and that appeals to readers who are facing similar problems."

"Even though we often get deluged with red-hot letters from irate women, we find they remain steadfast readers of the 'Worry Clinic' for they apparently realize the truth of what you tell them."

FIRST MAMA—First Lady Betty Ford uses her Citizens Band radio while in a motorcade en route from a reception to the airport in San Antonio, Tex. Mrs. Ford uses the handle "First Mama" when on the radio, and she advised those she was talking with that "There's a lot of smokies on my front door." Smokies, in citizen-band parlance, means police. # Sheriff's water patrol on guard

Sheriff Raymond Nehring wishes to assure boaters that his water safety patrol is not on the river to harass them, but to help them and to make boating safer and more pleasurable for all.

He does say, however, that failure to comply with the boating laws or careless operation of watercraft will result in arrests and fines.

He suggests that all boaters make themselves familiar with the boating Rules Of The Road—"use common sense and common courtesy in the operation of your craft—do not stand, sit on gunwales or back of seats when underway—obey signs and buoy markers in restricted areas. If you are not sure about a regulation or if you have a question or are broken down and need help—hail the patrol boat—they will be glad to help you."

The following regulations apply to boating:
—All motorboats must be registered including sailboats over 12 feet.

—All boat operators must have the registration card for the boat, on their person or in the craft.

—Registration numbers and expiration decal must be properly displayed on bow of boat.

—All boats 16 feet or more must have Coast Guard approved personal flotation devices (vest, jacket, preserver) for each person aboard, plus one throwable device (cushion, ring buoy). Under 16 feet it is OK to use any Coast Guard approved device.

—All motorboats must have aboard one Coast Guard approved fire extinguisher and a horn, whistle or other sound device, except bells, audible for at least half a mile.

—Every vessel shall carry and display when underway between the hours of sunrise and sunset such lights as shall be required by the Coast Guard for watercraft of equivalent length and type.

—Batteries must be secured and shielded to prevent accidental shorting.

—Boats purchased after Jan. 1, 1968 must have affixed permanently, a manufacturer's capacity plate.

—It is unlawful to water-ski from the period of one-half hour after sunset to one-half hour before sunrise.

—When towing a person on water skis, aquaplane or similar device, a competent observer must be in the boat besides the operator.

—Persons under 12 years of age may not operate boats with motors of 10 hp or more, even with adult supervision. Children under 12 years may operate boats under 10 hp if accompanied by a person at least 18 years of age.

—No person shall operate any vessel or manipulate any water-ski in such a manner as to be grossly indifferent to the person or property of another person or in such a manner as to endanger the life or limb or damage the property of another person.

Sentenced to four weeks in jail

Gregory A. Bunker, 19, Ashton, was sentenced to four weeks in jail, plus a year probation, by Chief Circuit Judge James E. Bales in Lee County Circuit Court Thursday.

Bunker had been convicted of resisting a peace officer, a charge that stemmed from a scuffle with a Lee County Sheriff's deputy Dec. 28.

In other circuit court action, charges of deceptive practice against Dennis C. Nielsen, Donna Ann Nielsen and Kathy J. Meinsma were dismissed when restitution was made.

Greg Poling, Chateau Estates, was fined $25 after he pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct. He was arrested by Dixon Police earlier this month.

Five youths were arrested by Dixon Police early this morning on charges of illegal possession of liquor.

Charged were Dennis Brechon, 17, Rt. 2; Terrance M. Blackburn, 17, Rock Falls; and Steven G. Baumgart, 17, Joseph J. Hutten, 18, and Robert M. McCormick, 18, all of Sterling. Officers saw the youths walk away from a parked car in the 700 block of South Galena Avenue. The boys were carrying several cans of beer, police said.

Each was released on bond to appear in court May 19.

Illinois focus . . .

Public aid wants larger staff to police welfare

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Illinois welfare officials say taxpayers will get a better than four-to-one return on their investment if the state Department of Public Aid is allowed to boost its staff level by 11 per cent next fiscal year.

But a former state public aid director says the department should have to prove it's already making best use of the people it's got, and might better spend any added money on training them.

The request for new employees is also likely to be challenged in the General Assembly, where lawmakers are already having trouble swallowing the department's bid for an extra $145.6 million for welfare bills in May and June.

Some legislators have suggested the department is mismanaged and that underestimation of the state's welfare needs demonstrates this.

And they may be hard-pressed to explain why they voted to hire new welfare caseworkers when their home-town schools are laying off teachers or cutting programs because they got less money than expected from the state.

Department officials say they are currently authorized to have 9,900 employees, but that they want authority to hire an additional 1,091 workers between July 1 and June 30, 1977. The annual cost of salaries, retirement and fringe benefits and backup equipment for the new workers is estimated at $8.6 million.

But the officials say the state could save $38.1 million — $4.43 for each dollar spent — by hiring the new employees, a majority who would be given jobs which deal with recipients on a day-to-day basis.

"That's a lot of employees," said Joel Edelman, former director of the department who now works with the Legislative Advisory Commission on Public Aid.

"I don't see how they can absorb such an increase in a 12-month period and productively utilize the new employees' services. The department will have to prove their claim of a four-to-one return," he said.

Ike Ryan, deputy director of finance for the DPA, detailed the proposed spending and savings this way:

—1,005 new caseworkers would be authorized at a cost of $8.6 million. Officials hope the employees will be able to increase the weeding out of ineligible welfare recipients.

Individuals may challenge criminal history records

The Northwest Illinois Criminal Justice Commission was notified by David Fogel, executive director of the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (ILEC) of the new procedures regulating the right of individuals to see and correct their criminal history records.

Fogel said that the procedures, which are mandated by federal law, were developed for Illinois by the Department of Law Enforcement's Bureau of Identification (B of I) and incorporated into ILEC's Criminal History Record Information Plan which was submitted recently to the U.S. Department of Justice.

According to the guidelines for the new procedures, any individual who has a criminal record may review a copy of that record and challenge inaccurate information.

If the challenge is found to be justified, the B of I (which is the central repository for criminal history record information in the state) and local law enforcement agencies must make the necessary changes on the official record. Other agencies which have received the incorrect information will be notified of the necessary corrections.

"The unique aspect of this system is that it benefits both the law enforcement agencies and the people of Illinois," Fogel said. "Requests for review will be a continuous mechanism for agencies to check and update their records. This will make their operations more accurate and efficient."

He continued, "On the other hand, individuals can make sure that all the criminal history information on file about them is correct and complete. Incorrect information could be very damaging. It could mean, among other things, loss or denial of a job. The errors which cause these kinds of problems are avoidable now."

Second Anniversary Elections

Portugal is scheduled Sunday to hold its first free elections for a legislative assembly in half a century. Election Day falls on the second anniversary of the military coup that ended the right-wing dictatorship of Premier Marcello Caetano. At least 14 political parties are taking part in the sometimes violent parliamentary election campaigns. The coup that took place April 25, 1974, was led by General Antonio de Spínola, who was named provisional president, and General Francisco da Costa Gomes, the current Portuguese president. Flowers worn on lapels and placed in gun barrels caused the movement to be called the "carnation revolution."

Some words on Franklin

By MIKE CUNIFF

I still remember the first time I beheld Dick Franklin. Watching a Dixon-Rock Falls basketball game from the balcony in January of 1966, I recall the swiftness with which the Dukes hastened from end to end of the court in Lancaster Gymnasium.

Sporadically, you would call out instructions verbally to one of your players or motion via a hand signal some tidbit of information you wanted brought into action. There were no threatening or ominous sounds from the Dixon cheering section.

The Dukes were winners then. Big winners. One of the best teams in the state. Dixon received lots of publicity from area papers other than the Dixon Evening Telegraph. Sports writers from Rockford navigated their autos down Ill. 2 just to write the praises of another decisive victory by the Purple-and-White clad Dixon team.

Time rolls by. Fans watching the 1975-76 edition of the Dukes sometimes uttered less than positive sounds during basketball games. Dixon players were introduced to cheers but a smattering of boos could be distinguished by a listener when the "Coach Dick Franklin" was mentioned.

It appears as though your position as head varsity basketball coach might be in jeopardy, Dick, despite your past record. I imagine it would take you a year to remember all the sports editors and writers who have interviewed you while you have been at the helm of the Dukes.

I joined The Telegraph in November of 1972. Your first team that I covered featured Jeff Meling and his yellow tennis shoes, Don Heeg and a couple of underclassmen named Steve Breitza and Dave Moody.

The 1973-74 team had Bill Seeger, Chris Lendman and Heeg. Breitza and Moody headed your "74-75" squad while John Kemp and Dave Zinnen got a lot of ink the past season.

A lot of games have gone by in that time. Most of them have faded now. I doubt, Dick, if you even remember them all. Your philosophy of coaching has not changed much in that time.

I know you are still an exceedingly hard person to interview. I've visited you in the locker room after a lot of games, hoping to get some quotes with which to dress up my game summaries.

More times than not, I have been disappointed. Your tendency has been to clam up immediately upon recognizing my presence. A lot of people could possibly think I hope you are dismissed so we can get a new coach at Dixon who would in all probability have better communication with the press.

Yes, I have heard the story about your being "burned" by other newspapers who misquoted you or lifted sentences they wanted out of context from your post-game interviews.

I know you cringe when certain writers invade the dressing room and start probing your mind for reasons to this and reasons to that. But you must realize, Dick, that this is part of a sports writer's job.

You have never been one to brag about your victories or make excuses for your losses. If I could manage to get two or three sentences out of you, I considered it a job well done.

Perhaps you might have hurt your program in this way. I do not know if you even read my basketball articles in the past four years, Dick, because you never once mentioned it to me.

But I realized you are the way you are, Dick, and I can't change you. I just hoped that time would remove your feeling of being threatened by me and my note pad.

I never tried to force words into your mouth. I never tried to get you to make accusations against the referees. All I wanted was some simple statements about the game, seen through the head coach's eyes.

Do I hope you are dismissed, Dick? In a way, probably yes; thinking only in a selfish realm that it might make my job easier. In my four years as sports editor of The Telegraph, I could have taken innumerable shots at you for many different reasons.

I could have blamed you for losses or for guys not getting to play or lack of quotes, etc. I think you have to agree I have not done so except on rare occasions. I do not like to write "hatchet jobs" but will if I feel I can accomplish good by doing so.

One of the few times I disagreed with your philosophy was the Dixon and La Salle-Peru game this past season. I thought you should have pressed because of several reasons I pointed out in my story.

About the only repercussion I received was a statement "through the grapevine" that you would like to have me banned from the locker room. I gave you the chance to talk to me on several occasions thereafter but you mentioned not one word of your threat to my face.

If I say something in the paper, such as this column, what my stand is it's there for everyone to interpret in black and white. I expect everytime I write something to displease someone because no one ever agrees with anyone 100 per cent of the time.

But getting back to your dismissal, Dick, which side am I on? Am I "thumbs up or thumbs down"? I could disagree with your philosophy despite the success it has had.

I, myself, feel a coach should adapt his strategy to fit his players, not the other way around. However, you still win. The biggest factor I feel in the battle of whether to stay or go, Dick, is your feelings.

If so much sentiment in town is against you, then why stay? It's sort of like being condemned to die and then being given the choice between hanging or drowning. Neither alternative appeals much.

I could make up lots of charges why Franklin should go. I've probably been in intimate contact with you longer than any of the parents who want to see you dismissed have been.

If the parents are concerned about the welfare of their youngsters in a "team setting" and what they consider best for the school and the community, then I say yes to their convictions.

On the other hand, if the hassle with your philosophy stems from a personal gain outlook, then I disagree with the dismissal action. If for a personal gain, then every parent who thinks his boy might not get to play much during the next year would want to see the coach let go.

Utter chaos would exist. A coach can play only five guys at a time. No more, because of the rules. I, myself, like to see the reserves get as much playing time as possible, probably because I rode the pines for three years in high school myself.

About the only suggestion I have, Dick, is to talk to members of the varsity team for the upcoming year. Find out what their feelings are concerning your plight. They are the ones who will do the playing. Give them a chance to air their feelings and then make your decision.

The Dixon Archers will practice at Reynolds Field West Sunday at 1 p.m., rain or shine. Any player interested in trying out for the Archers is asked to attend.

Anyone wishing to express their view in the Dick Franklin controversy may write the sports desk at The Telegraph. Please sign your letter.

I have lots of schedules for the Clinton Pilots available for the asking.

The Chicago Cubs Thursday recalled pitchers Oscar Zamora and Ken Crosby from their Wichita farm club. To make room for the pair, the Cubs placed left-handed pitcher Geoff Zahn on 24-hour recall option to Wichita and placed right-hander Tom Detmore on waivers for the purpose of giving him his unconditional release.

Beauty is enhanced by a smile.

TENNIS

STERLING—Randy Paisley was the only winner as the Sauk Valley Redmen dropped a 5-1 decision in junior college tennis action at the Westwood Complex, here, Wednesday.

Paisley beat John Block 6-3 and 6-1 in singles while Redmen teammate Brad Hartje fell 3-6 and 1-6 against Bill Chomko. Tim Huyett lost 5-7 and 4-6 to Tom Lord and Tom Cushman fell 1-6 and 3-6 versus Rick Bick.

In doubles, Paisley and Huyett dropped a 1-6 and 3-6 decision to Block and Chomko. Hartje and Cushman fell 2-6 and 1-6 versus Lord and Bick. The Redmen, now 6-7-2 overall, will next travel to Chicago Saturday for matches against Harper and Oakton.

Cubs end losing streak thanks to the fickle winds

CHICAGO (AP) — Fickle fate, fickle winds. There was a little of both Thursday when the Chicago Cubs finally snapped a five-game losing streak with an 11th-inning, 5-4 victory over the Montreal Expos.

Fate played its part when Mike Adams happened to be the player on the spot with two outs in the 11th and runners on second and third. The son of former major leaguer Bobby Adams wasted no time in drilling a hit to right field to win the game.

Mike hadn't been sent up as a pinch batter. He went into the game as a pinch runner an inning earlier and remained to play second base. It just happened that Jerry Morales doubled with one out in the 11th and Andy Thornton was given an intentional pass.

Manny Trillo grounded out to advance both runners and Adams stepped up.

"They told me to get up there and start swinging," said Adams. "I was in no position to wait for my pitch or try to figure the pitcher out."

The fickle winds? This time they favored the Cubs. The game started with the winds blowing out and the Expos climbed to a 3-0 lead with pitcher Clay Kirby drilling a three-run double in the second and the score standing at 4-2 in the bottom of the fifth.

Bill Madlock and Morales then hit homers on successive pitches by reliever Fred Schermer to tie the score. No sooner had Morales' shot, aided by the wind, cleared the centerfield wall than the winds suddenly shifted.

Instead of blowing out, the winds blew in. Instead of homers, the pitchers started posting strikeouts and shutout innings.

"I wish the winds had shifted a few minutes earlier," said Expos Manager Karl Kuehl. "They wouldn't have had those two home runs and we might have had another victory. We learned something about the winds of Mr. Wrigley Field."

As it was, the Expos took two of the three games played in the series but their second victory wasn't official until Wednesday's suspended game was completed before Thursday's regularly scheduled contest.

Wednesday's game, delayed by rain several times and finally suspended after six innings because of darkness, was concluded Thursday with a final score of 12-6.

Tim Foli, who had singled, doubled and tripled Wednesday, also homered in the eighth inning to become the first Expo player ever to hit for the cycle.

Foli also doubled in the second inning of Thursday's regularly scheduled game with two outs to put runners on second and third. The Cubs decided to walk Pete Mackanin to fill the bases and Kirby cleared the bases with a double.

The Cubs came back with a pair and kayoed Kirby in the bottom of the second but Montreal made it 4-2 on Larry Parrish's run-scoring double in the third.

Then came the Madlock-Morales homers in the fifth and the battle was on.

"Except for that one pitch to Kirby, Rick threw well," said Cub Manager Jim Marshall. So did reliever Mike Garman and Oscar Zamora, who was the winning pitcher after earlier being recalled from Wichita.

Dodgers have a winning streak

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers are on a winning streak — one in a row.

That may not sound like much, but it is for the Dodgers, who have had their problems this year.

"We had a good spring training and everybody worked hard but we haven't had any good pitching until the last two games," says Manager Walt Alston.

The Dodgers, off to their worst start in many years, have only won three of 11 games so far, including Thursday night's 7-2 decision over the Houston Astros.

"I don't expect to knock too many fences down but we are not hitting up to par," Alston said. "While we haven't played well enough to win many, we have only been bombed out in one game this season an 8-3 loss to Houston.

"We have had our opportunities but when you are going bad, you wind up losing your share."

Doug Rau, Thursday night's winning pitcher, saw the game as a turning point in Dodger fortunes.

In other National League action, the Montreal Expos defeated the Chicago Cubs 12-6 in a wrapup of a game suspended from Wednesday and then lost the regularly-scheduled contest, 5-4 in 11 innings. In the American League, the Kansas City Royals beat the Milwaukee Brewers 2-1.

Dusty Baker's bases-loaded single climaxed a three-run fifth inning for Los Angeles. Rau, 2-0, struck out six and allowed five hits before running into trouble in the seventh.

Rau was taken out of the game after giving up a run in the seventh and loading the bases on a single and two walks.

Royals 2, Brewers 1

Jim Wohlford scored the decisive run on third baseman Don Money's error with two out in the eighth inning, lifting Kansas City over Milwaukee.

Wohlford bunted for a single with one out in the eighth and stole second. After Amos Otis took a disputed third strike, Jerry Augustine relieved starter Jim Colburn, 0-1, to face the left-handed hitting of George Brett.

Brett hit a chopper toward third and the ball hopped through Money's legs into left field as Wohlford raced home to break a 1-1 tie.

White Sox baseball

CHICAGO — The Chicago White Sox open a nine-game home stand at Comiskey Park tonight with the American League champion Boston Red Sox providing the opposition this weekend.

The Chicago home stand will feature the appearance of three teams from the Eastern division of the American League — Boston, Milwaukee and Detroit, in that order. This marks the first lengthy home stand of the 1976 pennant race for Manager Paul Richards' club and will be highlighted by five night games and one Sunday doubleheader.

Bears are dropped

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears have been dropped from Monday Night football and face a tough six-week stretch midway in the 1976 season.

The National Football League schedule was released Wednesday and the Bears, 4-10 last season, won't appear on the telecast. "We were a little disappointed," said Bears general manager Jim Finks. "It's important to the city to be on national television. But we have no control over who and when we play."

The Bears open their season at home against Detroit Sept. 12 and close at home against Denver, Dec. 12. The toughest part of the grind begins Oct. 3, when they meet Washington, Minnesota, Los Angeles, Dallas, Minnesota again and Oakland, before hosting the Green Bay Packers Nov. 14.

The Bears also meet the expansion team, Seattle, Dec. 5 in the Northwest. The combined 1975 record of their opponents, is 102-80. The Bears will open the exhibition season July 31 at Denver and then meet Seattle, Baltimore, St. Louis, Tampa Bay and Washington before starting the championship campaign.

BASE-BRAWL—The New York Mets and the St. Louis Cardinals get into fight during the fourth inning of their game in St. Louis. Tempers flared after Mets Del Unser was hit by pitch and then both pitchers were bruised back by pitches. Order was restored and the Mets won 8-0. (AP Wirephoto)

An outside view

Speaking as president on behalf of the Dixon High School Booster Club, it would appear that the recent move to remove Dick Franklin (as head varsity basketball coach at Dixon) could be mistaken to be an action of the Booster Club because of the action being led by some of our officers.

I, personally, and as Dixon High School Booster Club president, feel that the main interest of the Booster Club is to improve enthusiasm and spirit and not destroy it or create unrest.

As a club, we will not be actively involved in this matter for as long as I remain president. Such actions or dismissal should come from or through the proper channels.

Sincerely, Lou Simon

Things go right for Rowe

By The Associated Press
Everything went right for Curtis Rowe — and everything went wrong for the Golden State Warriors.

"That was probably the best game he ever played in his life," Bob Lanier said after watching his Detroit teammate tear up the Warriors in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Golden State Coach Al Attles called it "an all-pro performance" after watching Rowe score 33 points, grab 10 rebounds, collect three assists and make three steals in Detroit's 123-111 victory over the Warriors Thursday night.

The shockingly easy victory forged a 1-1 tie for Detroit in the best-of-seven Western Conference semifinals.

"It was just one of those games when everything went right," said Rowe. "It's hard to stop a team when that is happening."

In another playoff game, the Cleveland Cavaliers beat the Washington Bullets 92-91 and took a 3-2 lead in their Eastern Conference semifinals. In tonight's action, the Boston Celtics, holding a 1-0 lead, host the Buffalo Braves in an Eastern semifinal series.

Lanier, the Pistons' muscular center, totaled 31 points, hitting 10 of 15 shots from the floor, mostly on outside jump shots. Rowe made 12 of 16 field goal attempts.

Rick Barry was Golden State's top scorer with 27 points but had only five points — all foul shots — in the second half.

Cavaliers 92, Bullets 91

Jim Clemons laid in a rebound with one second left to give Cleveland its victory over Washington. The game, played before 21,312 — the largest crowd ever to see an NBA playoff game and the biggest home crowd in Cleveland history — was close all the way. Neither team led by more than seven points at any time.

The Bullets led 91-90 with 37 seconds left. After a Cleveland turnover, Washington's Elvin

Hayes missed two free throws with seven seconds left and the Cavaliers took time out. Center Jim Chones was fouled with five seconds left and Cleveland had the ball out of bounds again.

A shot by Bobby Smith, who had 15 points including 10 in the third period, bounced off the side of the rim before Clemons sank the rebound.

ABA Results
DENVER (AP) — Forwards Gus Gerard and Byron Beck gave Denver the off-the-bench scoring punch it had been lacking, and the result was a 127-117 victory and a 3-2 lead in its American Basketball Association playoff series with the Kentucky Colonels.

Gerard scored 14 points and had three steals, and Beck had 13 points and 10 rebounds to support rookie David Thompson's game-high 34 points Thursday night. The triumph forces the Colonels into a must-win situation Sunday at Louisville in Game No. 6 of the best-of-seven semifinal series.

A seventh game, if necessary, would be played here Wednesday night.

In the other semifinal series, the New York Nets host the San Antonio Spurs Saturday in Uniondale, N.Y. for the deciding seventh game.

"This is the first time in the series that our bench has really sustained something for us," said Denver Coach Larry Brown.

Denver's reserves played a key role in a third-quarter flurry, in which the Nuggets hit 73 per cent from the floor, compared to Kentucky's 39 per cent, and outscored Kentucky 39-23.

Gerard scored six straight points midway through the final period, staking the Nuggets to their biggest lead of the game at 112-90. The Colonels got no closer than the final margin after that.

"Denver just blew us out in the third quarter," said Kentucky Coach Hubie Brown. "We let the tempo of the game get away from us."

The Colonels, dropping their second game in as many nights, had to do without starting guard Bird Averitt for much of the contest. Averitt, bothered by an aggravated tonsillitis condition and accompanying high fever and nausea, played only 26 minutes and scored eight points. He had been averaging 23.5 points in the series.

Another Kentucky guard, Kevin Joyce, suffered ligament damage in his left thumb, and his status for the remainder of the playoffs was uncertain.

Artis Gilmore had 26 points and 12 rebounds for the Colonels. Lucas and Wilbert Jones chipped in with 21 and 19 points, respectively.

Thompson, hitting 13 of 20 shots from the floor, had his most productive playoff game. Denver's Ralph Simpson added 19 points, 11 of them in the explosive third period.

Sittler stuns the Flyers

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer
When Darryl Sittler breaks out of a slump, he does it in style.

The 25-year-old captain of the Toronto Maple Leafs hadn't scored in eight previous playoff games this season. The Philadelphia Flyers wish he had made it nine.

As it was, Sittler rammed in a record-tying five goals in leading the Maple Leafs to an 8-5 quarter-final victory over the Flyers in another rough National Hockey League battle that saw a record 185 minutes of penalties assessed.

"I feel lucky," Sittler said after adding an assist to finish with six points, tying another playoff mark. "I don't know how I did it, but I can assure you I went out to win the hockey game, not to set any records."

The Toronto victory knots the best-of-seven series at 3-3 and sends the two teams back to Philadelphia for the decisive contest.

In other NHL games Thursday, the New York Islanders edged Buffalo 3-2 to win their quarter-final series 4-3 and Los Angeles scored a tension-packed 4-3 triumph over Boston in sudden-death overtime.

Sittler scored once in the opening period, three goals in the second and added his fifth in the third period. That tied the record set by Maurice "Rocket" Richard against the Leafs on March 3, 1944.

And Sittler's assist on Toronto's final goal gave him six points, tying him with the record set by Dickie Moore of the Montreal Canadiens against the Boston Bruins on March 25, 1954, and tied by Phil Esposito, then with Boston, against the Leafs on April 2, 1969.

The third-period fight ended with a double game misconduct given to Philadelphia's Dave Schultz and a minor, major, 10-minute misconduct and a game misconduct to Toronto's Dave Williams.

Islanders 3, Sabres 2
Clark Gillies scored at 5:58 of the third period to give New York its victory over the Sabres as the Islanders captured their quarter-final series four games to two. The victory was the Islanders' fourth straight. Jude Drouin and Eddie Westfall scored while Gil Perreault and Jerry Korab tallied for Buffalo.

Kings 4, Bruins 3
Center Butch Goring netted a 30-foot slap shot at 18:27 of sudden death overtime to give Los Angeles its victory over Boston for a 3-3 tie and sudden life in their quarter-final series.

The teams move to Boston for the final game Sunday night.

Goring skated in on Boston goalie Gerry Cheevers and unloaded the shot which went through the netminder's legs. Goring was mobbed by teammates, who carried him off the ice as the crowd stood in ovation.

Gibson managers gather

Charles Kankelfitz, manager of the Gibson Discount Center in Dixon, attended the annual meeting of managers of 190 Gibson Discount Centers, recently, in Omaha, Neb.

Managers of the 190 Gibson Discount Centers in 13 states, which are owned and operated by Pamida, Inc., Omaha, Neb., attended the two-day meeting and discussed inventory control, advertising, merchandising, store operation, over-all procedures, personnel and customer relations.

Ted Chernak, senior vice president of finance, reported Pamida's sales for the year ended Jan. 31 totaled $241.6 million, up 19.5 per cent from $202.2 million the prior year. Net earnings rose 15.8 per cent to $7.7 million, or 83 cents a share, compared to $6.6 million, or 73 cents a share, the previous year. Projected sales for 1976 are in the range of $285-$290 million.

Pamida's stores are located in towns with populations between 5,000 and 12,000 in population. They are managed by employees recruited in the rural Midwest, said Chairman D. J. Witherspoon.

Witherspoon and Lee Wegener, president, opened their first discount store in Knoxville, Iowa, in 1963. Since then, additional Gibson Discount Centers have been opened in Minnesota, Kansas, North Dakota, South Dakota, Missouri, Wisconsin, Illinois, Idaho, Nebraska, Wyoming, Montana and Michigan.

During the last year Pamida opened a total of 25 stores, of which 16 stores were in new communities and 15 stores were in existing outlets in new, larger buildings. As a part of the continuing program of growth, 31 stores will be opened this year.

Investment clubs popular

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Interest in stock investment clubs is rising again after declining sharply during the dark days of the economy. Planning for the future, rather than merely securing the present, looks attractive again.

Also spurring interest is the quick recovery of some clubs that continued to invest during the big price decline of 1973 and 1974, and which thus picked up blue chip shares at tarnished goods prices.

Many clubs during the past year have outperformed the return of the S&P 500.

Weight losers win donations

The Diet Workshop has recently completed a cooperative project with CARE. Members of Diet Workshop have worked diligently to find sponsors who would pledge money for each pound lost in the previous six-week period. Pledges for the project will be collected from the sponsors through the end of April. All money will be donated directly to CARE to help feed the malnourished in the underdeveloped nations.

Jan Stilson, area manager for Diet Workshop, announces that the local Dixon class will collect over $168 for CARE. Members participating in the project have been Mary Sanlon, Frances Reever, Nancy Spratt, Josephine Cochran, and Carol Marcoux.

Carol Marcoux has been Careperson for the class, acting as coordinator for the duration of the project. She has also been the high loser, soliciting over $127 for her six-week loss of 12 1/2 pounds. Other area classes participating in the project have been Rochelle, Mt. Morris, DeKalb, and Stillman Valley.

turns obtained by professional portfolio managers. In the 14 or 15 months ending with December 1974, one club reported its value increased 212 per cent.

Thomas O'Hara, chairman of the National Association of Investment Clubs, reports inquiries on the rise again, suggesting strongly that the number of member clubs soon will rise above the current recession-induced total of 7,000.

The clubs, which in effect are small, private mutual funds that are managed as well as owned by the members, generally involve about 12 people of similar goals, although often of dissimilar but complementary skills.

The clubs permit members to learn about investing, to invest small amounts at a time, to spread the risk through diversification, to compare investment research and, if they do well, to see their assets grow.

Their importance seems to have been underscored by the recent decision of the New York Stock Exchange to discontinue sponsorship of the Monthly Investment Plan, which permitted small investors to buy even fractions of shares.

Merrill Lynch continues to operate its Sharebuilder Plan, which is similar, but other brokers seem to have lost interest in — and it is claimed, money on — small accounts.

Clubs fill this gap. Although their purchases may be in round lots of 100 shares or more, the individual members' percentage of the total often is an amount that most brokers wouldn't consider handling.

Generally a club has informal beginnings among a few friends, each of whom invites others to an initial discussion meeting at a home or office. If agreeable, a second meeting may be scheduled.

Those who return usually are genuinely interested in organizing, the details of which may be obtained from the Association's manual, which costs $5, a sum that is returned if the club becomes a member.

Although some large clubs might have 25 or more members, O'Hara believes most clubs initially operate best with about 12.

Officers generally are elected at the second meeting, and two or three members are assigned to research and give reports on stocks. A broker also is chosen tentatively and invited to attend future meetings.

The most common investment per person is $20 to $25 each month, although $5 or $10 often is as effective an amount as $50 or $100. The clubs regularly invest their assets, usually each month. Dividends are reinvested.

While successful clubs never need join the National Association, there are advantages to doing so. Dues are $15 a year, plus $3 for each member, which entitles the club, among other things, to a $25,000 bond.

The latter, which protects members against misappropriation and theft, is an often-used benefit, said O'Hara, who relates the unfortunate news that some clubs formed among the best of friends do not always share the best fates.

Membership also includes the monthly magazine, "Better Investing," and the opportunity to buy assorted material — charting and bookkeeping items, for example. The magazine is also available to nonmembers for $6 a year.

The National Association of Investment Clubs is at 1515 East Eleven Mile Road, Royal Oak, Mich., 48067.

This sign identifies the combining of two new Dixon businesses, Bunny's Bait Shop and Imperial Rent-All. A joint grand opening is planned for Saturday and Sunday. The firms are located at the 500 block of East River Road. Raymond Hayes, owner of the Bait Shop, and the management of the rent-all invite the public to inspect the businesses during the weekend. Prizes and refreshments will be offered. (Telegraph Photo)

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Friday, April 23, the 114th day of 1976. There are 252 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1564, William Shakespeare was born at Stratford-on-Avon in England. He died on the same date in 1616.

On this date:
In 1789, President-elect and Mrs. George Washington moved into the first presidential mansion at the corner of Franklin and Cherry streets in New York City.

In 1792, the French national anthem, "La Marseillaise," was written.

In 1838, the first regular trans-Atlantic steamship service began as the "Sirius" and "Great Western" arrived in New York from England.

In 1940, more than 200 people died in a dance hall fire at Natchez, Miss.

In 1941, during World War II, King George II of Greece fled to the island of Crete after German troops had broken through the Thermopole Pass.

In 1945, American and Russian forces met at Torgau in East Germany.

Ten years ago: U.S. Air Force jets shot down two Soviet-built MIGs in a five-minute aerial battle 65 miles north of Hanoi in North Vietnam.

Five years ago: Federal troops were alerted for possible duty in Washington, D.C., as thousands of anti-Vietnam War demonstrators converged on the capital.

One year ago: The South Vietnamese Cabinet resigned as panic gripped Saigon, and President Ford declared that the Vietnam War was over.

Today's birthdays: Ambassador Shirley Temple Black is 48. General Lucius Clay is 79. Writer Vladimir Nabokov is 77. Thought for today: We have but one police force — the American woman. — President Herbert Hoover, 1874-1964.

Intake of avocado should be watched carefully

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB— I have been watching the statements you have made about diet and atherosclerosis prevention and have found them to be helpful. However, I have some questions of importance to my own diet which you have not touched upon.

What about avocados? The avocado industry would have us believe that avocados are great because there are only 264 calories per avocado with not a smidgen of cholesterol. They say nothing, however, about saturated fats, and somehow I find it hard to believe that anything so tasty could be good for my coronary arteries.

Also what do you think of creamy salad dressings made with half safflower mayonnaise and half yogurt?

DEAR READER— The U.S. Department of Agriculture states that a California avocado, about 3 1/2 inches in diameter, weighs 284 grams and provides 370 calories. About 37 grams of the entire weight (seeds, skin and all) is fat. This means that over 300 of the total 370 calories in the avocado are fat. I believe it's fair to say then that you should consider that an avocado is mostly a fat food since 85 per cent of its calories are fat. About 20 per cent of the fat in the avocado is saturated fat. The avocado association is correct in saying that it contains no cholesterol — no plant foods do. Cholesterol is strictly an animal product.

The primary concern then about the use of avocados in the diet is their high fat content and the amount of saturated fat they contain. The Inter-Society Commission For Heart Disease Resources recommends limiting your total fat intake in the diet to no more than 35 per cent of your total calories. That means you can't eat very many avocados if you eat any other foods that contain any moderate amount of fat. The Commission also recommends that you limit your saturated fat intake to 10 per cent of your total calories.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Your heartstrings and purse strings can be easily reached today. Be careful they're not pulled by someone with selfish motives.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Don't let a friend involve you in petty intrigues today. It could cause a problem with someone you care a great deal about.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Trying to have things too much your own way today will rankle your companions. Keep their good will. Be co-operative.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Your feelings may be a bit more vulnerable than usual today. Don't misinterpret something someone says, and respond erratically.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
In your desire to be helpful today you might unintentionally contribute new complications. Stay out of others' affairs.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
If you have an important decision to make today, be doubly sure you're apprised of all facts. A judgment made on inadequate information will cause a problem.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
You may attempt to do something on your own today instead of hiring an expert. It could cost you more in the long run.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
You're not your usually sharp self in business and financial matters today. Think carefully before making commitments.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Be extra-safety-conscious with tasks around the house today. Take a little more time rather than do something dangerous.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Double-check anything you sign or put in writing today. There's a possibility you may overlook something important.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Think twice today before making a loan to a friend who is a poor risk. You could have some difficulties in recovering it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Don't champion a cause today that you know is unpopular with your companions. It could cause argument and hard feelings.

Your Birthday
April 24, 1976

This coming year you may enter into several unusual, but interesting, partnerships. If your choice of associates is wise, mutual benefits will result.
